Winnipeg, May 27.

The Northern Pacific lines in Manitoba have been transferred to the Manitoba government.

Midland, Transvaal Colony, May 26.

The commandos of Krillinger, Van Boven and Fanché debouched yesterday before dawn and crossed the railway before the dawn and crossed the railway before the dawn and crossed the railway before the dawn.

The dashing southward revealing the more populous districts of Cape Colony. Fauche's commando has been sheltered and resting many weeks in the Zuber Mountains.

London, May 26.—The war office received the following from Lord Kitchener dated Pretoria, May 26: "A superior force of Boers made a determined attack on a convoy between Venterdorp and Potchefstroom, May 23, but was driven off. Our loss was four killed and 30 wounded. The convoy arrived in safety."

Albany, New York, May 26.—Electric cars racing for a switch while running in opposite directions at the rate of forty miles an hour met five lives this afternoon by a terrific collision, while one forty prominent people were injured some fatally and others seriously. The accident wards of the various hospitals were filled. There is a possibility of other deaths in the morning.

The lobby of the local post office is filled with dead and wounded. Hygienic women and children looking for medicines and friends, surgeons, attending temporary relief, and ambulances racing through the city, taking the wounded to hospitals, were the early intimations of the most terrible electric car accident ever heard of in this locality. The scene of the accident was a point about two miles out of East Green Bush on the line of the Albany and Hudson railway, a just completed road of the third rail pattern. The point where the cars met on the single track was a sharp curve and so fast were both running and so sudden the shock that the motor men never had time to get on the brakes before each bound car had gone almost clear through northbound car No. 17 with human flesh for a buffer, and lung on the edge of a high bluff with its load of shocking, maimed humanity. The motor man was pinned up against the front of the south bound car with both legs severed and killed instantly. While the other one lived but a few minutes. Fully 120 men, women and children formed a huge struggling shoving pyramid mixed with blood drenched portions of human bodies and the wreckage of the cars. Some of the more slightly injured of the men extricated themselves from the quivering mass to go to the aid of the men who were pinned under the cars. The men who were pinned under the cars were pinned under the cars. The men who were pinned under the cars were pinned under the cars.

start and walked away from the field in the first heat. Then Congrove started after him and began to cut down the lead. At the stretch they were neck and neck and the crowd held its breath. Coloma won out by half a length in a wild drive (time 2:29). This gave Coloma first money, Congrove second, and Barney M. third. 218 class although this race was the feature of the card there is very little to say about it. It was a foregone conclusion that Fleety, the swift little Portage mare, would win the race and she did it in three straight heats triumphantly playing with the field. Meggie got 95 and 120 and Hurtnot third money. Five horses cantered around to the three-quarter mile pole to start in the three-quarter mile running race. Power's Spanish Princess did not start. The start was a poor one, Fancliff being three lengths behind the field in getting away. A blanket could have covered the other four horses for the half mile. They Lough Derg and Springtime jumped to the front, Springtime leading. They entered the stretch neck and neck. Both jockeys were lashing their horses for all they were worth, but despite the frantic efforts of Woodman Springtime's jockey, Lough Derg, forced ahead, and won cut by half a length. Time 1:19-1/4. The judges fined Woodman $10 for striking Lough Derg's jockey in the stretch. The runners finished: Derg, 1; Springtime, 2; Tosti, 3; Scorch, 4; Fancliff, 5. In the 22nd class, Jerry Chlars, a black gelding captured the first heat after a close finish, Darkey landing second. Time 2:26. Darkey reversed the order of things on the next heat beating Jerry Chlars in the stretch. Time 2:25-1/2. The third heat was knocked down by Prince Sharper after another sensational finish. Time 2:27-1/2. Darkey, Lough Derg, forced ahead and 2:26-1/2. Then came an accident Darkey took the lead and was going well although his gait looked rather peculiar. He had barely reached the quarter when both his hobbles broke. This settled Darkey's chances. He was distanced, Prince Sharper winning the heat. Time 2:29-1/2. Prince Sharper won the sixth heat and the race. Time 2:30-1/2. Jerry Chlars got second and Bill W. third money.

LOCAL

—R. B. Gyle, formerly of Moville, Ia., has moved to Wetaskiwin.

—The meteorological office records showed 82 in the shade yesterday.

—Ralph Bellamy is back from Toronto, having completed his third year at McMaster university.

—Mrs. R. Connor has returned from Fort Saskatchewan where she had been visiting for a few weeks.

—A much-needed crossing is being put in on Jasper avenue at the intersection of Second street.

—Preparations are being made for a monster picnic and bazaar at St. Emerence (Riviere Qui Parle) on June 19th.

—Dr. C. E. Smyth, medical superintendent, of the general hospital, Medicine Hat, is visiting Dr. Whitelaw and other friends in town.

—Mrs. J. W. Shera left on Thursday's train to meet her husband at Calgary, where they intend taking in the sports and then continuing to Regina.

—An excellent production of "Chisel-ling," and "Betty Baker," was given by Strathcona amateurs in Ross Hall on Friday evening, terminating the holiday.

—Mr. Justice Scott comes in tonight. Court re-opens to-morrow. The first cases to come up will be the Wagner charges, the Montgomery case laying over until a later sitting.

—M. Desmoules, D. L. S., of Murray Bay, Que., is outfitting here and making up his party before leaving for Pigeon Lake, where he will be for some time engaged in survey work.

—G. Harding, of the Hudson's Bay Company, came in from a six months visit east, on Friday and left Saturday for the Mackenzie river, where he has been stationed for a number of years at the Fort Simpson post.

—With a view to securing a teacher's excursion rate east all teachers who intend going east this summer are requested to hand or send in their names together with the name of their intended destination to J. T. Col- lison, St. Albert.

—The body of Thos. Fara, who was drowned in the Red Deer river, a few miles above Innisfail some weeks ago, has been found. It had drifted down the river to the saw mill and lodged in the dam. His watch and other valuables including two hundred dollars in money were found in his pockets.

—Dr. Frederick T. Bennett, of Grove- side House, Richmond Road, Kingston, on Thames, England, accompanied by Mrs. Bennett, arrived last week and intends entering upon the practice of his profession at Fort Saskatchewan. Dr. Bennett also represents some English newspapers, the Surrey Comet and London Telegraph to which he will send descriptive articles of the country.

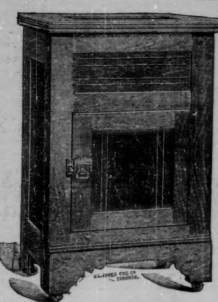

—M. McCauley, M. L. A., took advantage of the Victoria Day adjournment of the legislature and paid a visit home, arriving Thursday. A great deal of important legislation is being enacted this session, notably the consolidation of the school and local improvement ordinances, and the public works bill. The session would probably prorogue about the middle of next month. Mr. McCauley returned south on a special.

—The observance of Victoria Day was quiet to the verge of dullness. The day was to be Strathcona's celebration, but the elements interfered the day preceding. Friday itself was bright and beautiful, but the newly graded track on the south side was in no condition for speeding owing to the rain of Thursday. Within the town there was a Sunday stillness, broken only by the occasional half-hearted crack of a lonely fire-cracker.

—In the last annual report of the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange, recently issued, we find the following: "For the production of oats we have long looked to the territory of the Manitoba & Northwestern railway, but the new settlements in the Edmonton district had fair to become the main oat producers of the Northwest, while the quality is something never before attained anywhere in Canada."

—The Americans meet in Robertson hall here at 7:30 to-night to arrange a programme for a 4th of July celebration, or Independence Day, in connection with the July celebration here. A joint meeting will be held in Strathcona to-morrow night to make further arrangements. From indications, Americans' joy, though the hall will not be "the least" of the four days of festivity. The Americans who have made Alberta their adopted home are arranging a celebration which they promise will easily outdistance any other feature of the fair. It will be American's Day in every sense of the word, and will be celebrated just as the 4th is always honored throughout the neighboring republic. Patriotic addresses will be delivered and the atmosphere will be thick with fire crackers and "Old Glory."

EDMONTON BULLETIN MAY 27th, 1901

DEBATE ON PROVINCIAL AUTONOMY IN THE TERRITORIAL HOUSEThe following is the report of the Regina Leader, the Hansard of the Territorial assembly, on the debate on the annexation of portions of the Territories to Manitoba:Mr. D. H. McDonald, moved and E.
C. McDiarmid seconded: Resolved that in the opinion of this house, no terms should be accepted for the erection of the Territories, into a province, or provinces entailing the annexation of any portion thereof to the Province of Manitoba.Premier Haultain said the hon. leader of the Opposition had brought this very important matter forward without saying anything. However, he (Mr. Haultain) had an amendment which he would submit to the house before resuming his seat. The resolution was not very satisfactory worded. When it said that no terms should be accepted for the erection of the Territories into a province, &c., it became in a sense an impossible resolution. In the first place any terms that might be attached to the erection of the Territories in a province provinces could have nothing to do with the question of the extension of Manitoba. The terms would be financial terms, and those other terms that would naturally suggest themselves to the members of the house. If therefore, the resolution be adopted the house might find itself in an impossible position, because neither acceptance nor rejection of terms would be asked. The house was not in a position to accept or reject. They might express an opinion and they might propose terms, but having done so, they would have exhausted their powers. The motion seemed to him to be what in theological language would be called a "work of supererogation." Even since 1866, when the question was first mooted in the Assembly, the house had expressed itself against taking away any portion of the Territories. In 1897 the hon. member of the resolution made it part of his platform as well as the advocacy of one province only. In 1898 the question was referred to specially in the house on a question introduced by Dr.
Patrick, which however, advocated an extension of the boundary of Manitoba northward, and yet the mover of the present resolution supported that motion of Dr. Patrick. In 1899 the house again spoke plainly on the subject, so there might be an advantage in again formally stating its position; but so far as the house was concerned there was no doubt about the feeling against the extension of the Manitoba boundary westward. It was a unanimous feeling. They might, therefore, as well put the resolution in such a form as would enable every member of the house to vote for it and with that view in mind, moved as an amendment seconded by Mr.
Dalyne "That this house is bitterly opposed to any further expansion of the western boundary of the province of Manitoba; and in the opinion of this house any such expansion would be opposed to the wishes and detrimental to the interests, not only of those portions of the Territories affected thereby, but to the Territories as a whole."Mr. H. S. Lake (Greenfield) said that during a recent year in the district he represented the question was brought up in every portion of the country, attention having been called to it by articles in the Manitoba newspapers and by the action of the Manitoba government. The people showed themselves strongly and unanimously opposed by resolutions and meetings for his guidance in regard to annexation of any part of the Territories to Manitoba. As a matter of fact he had intended to call attention to this later in the session. The resolution of Mr.
McDonald was defective in form, and might lead to some position, difficult in view of the resolution passed in 1898.
He should support the amendment.Mr. A. S. Smith (Moosejaw) said he did not intend to take up the time of the house more than a few minutes.
The question came close home to the district he had the honor to represent.
Whilst he would be willing to give his support for the preventing of any portion of the Territories being added to Manitoba, yet he would like to support nothing that would hamper the government in its endeavors to settle the provincial question. He felt that the question would be discussed before the close of the session. The question the resolution led up to was probably the most important one the assembly had to deal with. What they did would affect the Territories for all time to come, and he believed it was well for the house and the people of the country to give the matter their calm and serious consideration. Hedid not think the government of the Territories were pushing the question too quickly. They were being criticised for being too slow. Possibly this very important question might come up at a later date and he liked the ring of the amendment so had great pleasure in giving it his support.Dr. Patrick (Yorkton) said that although the assembly was not the place to discuss some matters relating to the provincial question, yet the matter might come in for discussion at the present session, more particularly after the resolution came to by the Manitoba government. He thought that Manitoba might be likened to the prodigal who wished to marry, an heiress so as to appropriate her property. He had yet to hear that Manitoba was willing to resort to direct taxes on their lands to pay their obligations. There were no terms of that sort in the proposed political marriage. He had indeed heard it suggested by one or two people resident in the Territories, but they were in every case servants of the government at Ottawa, who had neither eyes to see nor ears to hear, but as they were directed. It had been assumed also that the Dominion might assume the debts of Manitoba, but it would be like taking the money of the heir and then saying they were free from debt; for in such a case the Territories would have to pay its share of what the Dominion did. The Territories did not want any extension of Manitoba. It had been urged by Manitoba that there should be such extension because commercially the Territories were dependent upon Manitoba. To a certain extent that was true in his district; but it was a condition that would not exist for all time.
They ought not to allow such a matter to influence them, else why not divide the Dominion into two provinces, one trading with Montreal, the other with Winnipeg. Then again if physical reasons were to have weight why not divide the Dominion into two provinces and make the Red Deer river a boundary with Alberta as a province to the east and western province on this side. These ideas should not meet with any strong degree of favor. No government would try to start a wave of discontent across the country by acting contrary to the wishes of the people. They had had it distinctly set forth that no change should be made except by the consent of the people.
A foremost statesman had said if he had a market when he had it not, at a place where he was not, he would have done something he did not, but he did not intend to give Laurier the monopoly of liberty and the desire of people to insist upon their rights. They had the rights that everybody else in Canada had, though some of them were in abeyance, and did not intend to be interfered with without their consent. The house had the right to pass resolutions, and perhaps that was all, but they might look forward to a settlement of the question on fair terms.Mr. Thos. McKay (Prince Albert) said that as the question affected Saskatchewan he would like to say a few words. He was sorry to see that there were gentlemen in the house who were not prepared to stand by ever portion of the Northwest Territories. He thought that whatever part of the prepared to stand up for the Territories as a whole. Now if the province of Manitoba were extended northward a country was threatened he would be large portion of the Territories would be taken in. The country was valuable as a timber country and was rich in minerals; and yet the amendment did not object to its being taken away.
Mr. Haultain was different one. He was sorry, however, to see that while members would fight for their own sections of the country, they were prepared to sacrifice other portions. The time would come when they might have control of their lands, fisheries, minerals and timber, and the government could get a large revenue from this northern land. He would vote for the original motion because he was opposed to any portion of the Territories being annexed to Manitoba.Mr. J. W. Connel (Souris) said that possibly it would be wise for those who represented constituencies adjoining Manitoba to give an expression of opinion. He had in his desk resolutions passed by people in his constituency, and in every instance they objected to annexation to Manitoba. They felt they would be swamped. They thought they had everything to lose and nothing to gain.Mr. E. C. McDiarmid (Cannington) would support the original resolution.
As he had been in the days past by the premiere, we wanted every stick and every straw belonging to the Territories.
Mr. A. B. Gillis (Whitecourt) said that a year or two ago he introduced a motion before the assembly on the same lines as the amendment. The amendment did not set forth a determination to keep all their Territories.
It was a question of the eastern portion, and the opinion on that subject was well known. There was no question about it. The feeling to-day was even stronger than it was two or three years ago. He did not think there was any fear that the Territories would be invaded; and certainly that strong feeling must be respected. That resolution placed the matter more clearly before the house, and certainly did not say they wished to have any portion of the Territories placed in Manitoba.Mr. A. S. Rosenoll (Wetaskiwin) said there might be geographical reasons why they should not oppose annexation of any part of the Territories to Manitoba. But they had grown up in the Territories under its uniform government and institutions, and now at the age of maturity to place any portion of them into a province which had grown under different conditions and different institutions would not be desirable.Dr. Elliott (Wolsley) said he was very much pleased to see such a unanimous expression of feeling in favor of keeping the Territories intact. Probably ninety-nine persons out of every hundred in his district, or even a greater proportion, were strongly opposed to the extension of Manitoba westward a single rod. The question had been discussed and some influence had been brought to bear, but the people were firm in their desire to adhere to the institutions of the Territories and not to try new fangled notions in Manitoba. What he should infer from the resolution was that the mover desired to commit the house, if they were an-nexed to shoulder their muskets and fight. Oh! Oh! This was not the place to express any such sentiments.
They had a government at Ottawa in whom the people had considerable confidence and they had in the Territories a government in whom they had unbounded confidence. These two governments were quite capable of managing the business. He had pleasure in expressing his satisfaction with the amendment that the premier had proposed.Mr. D. H. McDonald rising to reply said it was his intention in bringing forward his motion to place on record that it was not the desire of the house that any part of the Territories should be surrendered to Manitoba. Some of the previous speakers had brought up many arguments, and although they intended to vote for the amendment, yet these arguments were in favor of the resolution. Mr. Rosenoll, for instance, notwithstanding his argument was going to support an amendment which would allow some portion of the Territories to go into Manitoba.
Dr. Elliott imagined that it was wished to go into rebellion. The hon. gentleman's imagination was stronger than any he had yet come across. He thought it only right that they should place themselves on record on the matter. He regretted that several members thought only where their constituencies were, and did not stick up for other portions of the Territories.
The portion of the country north of Manitoba, and which it was proposed to put in Manitoba, might some day be very thickly populated. It was rich in minerals and timber, and he hoped they should secure its wealth for the Northwest. On a previous occasion the hon. premier made a speech in which he said he would fight for the last straw and the last stick belonging to the present Northwest Territories. They could hardly come to the conclusion that he was in the same frame of mind now, in the face of the amendment he had proposed. He believed there was enough unanimity in the Territories for all the constituencies to be united. He would, therefore, adhere to his original resolution.Mr. G. M. Annable (Moose Jaw) rising for the first time was received with cheers. He said he could not see much difference between the motion and the amendment. Both seemed to mean the same thing. The amendment was a little more explicit. If he thought the amendment meant the northern portion of the country could be taken into Manitoba he would not support it.
He did not see how that could be done by extending Manitoba westward.
What they had to put on record was their opinion against that westward extension. He would not support any motion that was not against any portion of the Territories going into Manitoba, either from the north, south, east or west. He was in the centre, but he saw from the Manitoba newspapers that they wanted to take in even Moose Jaw.Captain Meyers (Kilistino) said that Manitoba touched the east of his constituency, and from what he knew of the feeling of the people he was sure it would be objectionable for any portion of the Territories to go into Manitoba.Mr. A. L. Sifton closed the debate.
He said he was a little surprised at the first time the question had been discussed, and when they found the hon. gentleman now moving a resolution in such strong terms that he failed to show any means by which the house could refuse to accept the terms, except by acquiescing in the amendment, that they could hardly realize the fact that he had supported a resolution to extend Manitoba northward.Mr. MacDonald—I know now.
Mr. Sifton hoped the hon. gentleman would still continue to learn. At one time the hon. member was a supporter of the government as appeared from his election address.Mr. MacDonald denied this, challenging the production of any address so saying and saying he would await its production.
Mr. Sifton said he was willing to accept the statement whatever might be in the address (laughter). In conclusion he said there had been nothing in the debate that was not fully meant that would be added to the good sense of the house, and he was sure they would not pass a resolution that would make it responsible for doing something it had no power to do.The house then divided as follows:— For the amendment: Haultain, Sifton, McIntyre, Annable, Meyers, Elliott, Crosby, Grealey, Rosenoll, Lake, Smith, Patrick, Triggs, Connel, McCauley, Simpson, Wallace, Gillis, Sherlock.
Against: McDonald, Bennett, Villeneuve, Hawkes, McKay, McLeod, McDiarmid—7.

THE HISTORY OF THE EPIDEMIC

The following report of the recent epidemic has been presented to the town council by the medical health officer:

Gentlemen: With regard to the outbreak of small pox in and around Edmonton; Just before Christmas a few people came into Edmonton for medical advice. The disease was not diagnosed then, later a nurse practitioner came in from Belmont district to go to the public hospital (only just opened). As she had a rash out it advised her being sent from the hospital. The superintendent at once sent her home. Later one of the patients in the hospital developed the disease, but as the only diagnosis was chicken pox I did not quarantine, but I advised the hospital to be quietly closed, which was done, practically throwing the institution back for a month. Next case I saw was in the family of A ———. He having relations in the Belmont district, still the diagnosis of small pox was not made, owing to the lightness of the type and so much opposition among the local practitioners. I quarantined this family and kept them for nine weeks and on the history of this case made my diagnosis of small pox. B ——— was quarantined at this time. He had a very mild attack. Being a business man I presume he caught it from some of his clients. He ——— family caught it from the practitioner going to their home on her way to the hospital. Other families in town had it, I believe, but I had no knowledge of it. Practically the cases I first had knowledge of came from the Belmont district. One Napoleon Sears came up from Duhamel where he had been hunting up horses, went to Mr. Cinnamon's, Sturgeon river where he was working, gave the disease to his family, L's being relations of their family it there. Went back to their farm at Belmont, hence the spread in that district and into town.

Dr. Macdonald's visit thoroughly confirmed my diagnosis. I notified every man as to the official diagnosis. When Mr. Peterson came up he suggested that as the disease was so widespread and we had so little control that the best thing to do would be to start an isolation hospital. Your health and relief committee took up the suggestion strongly and so advised you, and being ready and willing to do anything to abate the contagion and lift the quarantine, your honorable body called a joint meeting of the members of the councils of Edmonton and Strathcona. The matter was then discussed and although some what skeptical on account of the difference of medical opinion, it was finally carried that the two towns should go in together and stamp out the disease, no matter what it might be called. The only house available for that purpose was the old Hudson's Bay house. We had to put it in repair, fit up, clean and thoroughly disinfected. When I point out that one item alone was 150 lights it will show that it was no small undertaking.

The starting of this hospital was such that people realized more than any other way that the disease, unless quickly and properly handled, might have disastrous results. I submit that the action of the town did more to arrest the disease in this district than anything else, I mean that before people knew what was the trouble they imagined that Edmonton was quarantined for small pox, but found out that it was more in an immediate district than in the town. Further, from the severity of some of the cases in the hospital here, I believe I am right in stating (I did not see the cases but as health officer they were reported to me) that if it had not been for the care and attention by the medical officer in charge, and the careful nursing of the sisters that we should have had three or four casualties, that is, if the town had not come to the front they would not have had the necessary care and attention. Further some who went in there had no home but those they were working at, so where would they have had to go to had your council not undertaken this.

Again, for two small towns to go to the great expense they did to sound the warning note to so large a district, may be very creditable, but it was rather hard to have such an expense when the disease was brought in from the country.

Of the 60 patients, making in all 152 hospital days, 560 days were white people, 770 half-breeds. Amongst the white people six patients developed the disease just after their removal into town. Two more of the whites, one was a traveller and the other a late comer, certainly not a taxpayer.

Disease was not started in Edmonton. Acting on the suggestion of the deputy minister and by advice of health officer the towns at once put forth such vigorous measures to stop the disease thereby sending such a note of warning through the country that it was a big help to government officials in doing their work.

The greatest number of patients were non-taxpayers to either town. No house or hospital being available, and the matter having to be done at once was a great expense to the town. Being the centre of an immigration district, the means taken were such as to stop the outbreak with as little impediment to immigration as possible.

Dr. Edwards of Regina approved of measures taken.

Dr. Patterson, Dominion government inspector, approved of measures and beyond advising would not make any alterations in existing arrangements. Roughly, in two towns, there were about 100 cases. In country considerably over 500 cases, some still existing, so that Edmonton being the trade and Strathcona the railway centre, we may not yet be free of this even after all expense and trouble.

In Edmonton by far the majority of people are vaccinated, school children not being allowed in school without certificates of vaccination, and as vaccination is the real and only preventative of this disease, I do not see what more could be done.

I am now pleased to inform you that the epidemic appears to have run its course, and that no houses are under quarantine for small pox or there are any patients in the isolation hospital which has now been closed. At the same time it is my duty to advise that all those who have not been already vaccinated should be treated, at any rate before the fall.

The government have adopted the same course that we pursued; that is, to have all school children throughout the different districts vaccinated during the summer months.

ARMY REFORM BILL PASSED.

After a debate lasting three days the Imperial house of commons approved secretary of war Brodrick's army reform scheme by a vote of 305 to 163, having previously rejected Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's amendment by a vote of 327 to 211.

Mr. Arthur Balfour, government leader in the house, in summing up the debate, revealed a situation at the end of 1899 and the beginning of 1900, which, in the event of foreign complications, would have been most perilous. In rebutting the criticism that the government's proposals were excessive he recalled that the liberal government was ousted in 1895 because the ammunition reserve was insufficient, being only 92,000 rounds for small arms, when it ought to have been 145,000,000. The conservatives had increased it to 170,000,000, and had maintained it on that basis.

Nevertheless at the time referred to above, there were only 3,300 rounds of small arms ammunition in Great Britain, and no reserve of artillery ammunition except what was actually with the guns retained at home, notwithstanding the fact that the government factor's and all private factor's were working twenty-four hours each day and seven days a week.

Mr. Balfour said that he would never go through such another period or do anything to thrust such a strain on his successors.

Notwithstanding the result of the division there is nothing like a cheerful support of the army scheme, either inside or outside the house.

LA PRESSE ON PROVINCIAL STATUS.

La Presse, of Montreal the leading French-Canadian journal of the province of Quebec, rises to sound a note of warning to Eastern Canada and the statute makers of Parliament Hill to beware of the west and be careful of the powers given it by parliament in the establishing of a province or provinces in the west. In the course of its remarks La Presse says that the question of the erection of the Territories into a province will be up for discussion and settlement shortly, and it is time for the eastern provinces to look after their own interests and see that they do not lose the control of affairs in the Dominion. At present, says La Presse, the population of the Territories would not justify the making of more than one province, but we want to look further and remember that in a few years from now these Territories may contain a population larger than either Ontario or Quebec. If this should happen the Northwest Territories, being a single province would have more influence than Ontario and Quebec taken separately. The Northwest Territories and Manitoba would probably in a few years balance the influence of Ontario and Quebec. We have had enough trouble already with Manitoba. To meet and guard against this we would suggest in our Dominion requirements, to have three provinces made out of the present area of the Northwest Territories. One province would take in the southeast portion of the Territories and would have Regina as its capital; The southwest would make another province, with Calgary as its capital and the northern portion of Alberta and Saskatchewan would make a province, with Edmonton as the capital.

UNEXPLORED CANADA

Hereafter there will be issued annually at Ottawa a government report summarizing clearly and plainly, without the use of technical language, the year's work of the Dominion geological survey. The work of the geological survey is of the highest importance, and it is right that the reports in which its results are embodied should be made as accessible as possible to the general public. As evidence of the large share of the attention of the world at large which is claimed by the mineral resources of the Dominion, mention was made in these columns recently of the fact that the Washington government has published as a circular report a carefully made summary of the report of the geological survey recently issued, covering the work done last year. In this connection it is interesting to note that the report says: "There are more than 1,000,000 square miles of unexplored land in Canada. The entire area of the Dominion is computed at 3,450,257 square miles, consequently one-third of this country has yet been untraveled by the explorer. Exclusive of the innumerable detached Arctic portions, 954,000 square miles is for all practical purposes entirely unknown."

A careful estimate is made of the unexplored regions. Beginning at the northwest of the Dominion, the first of these areas is between the eastern boundary of Alaska, the Porcupine river, and the Arctic coast, about 5,500 square miles in extent. The next is west of the Leves and Yukon rivers and extends to the boundary of Alaska. Until last year, an area of 32,500 square miles in region was unexplored, but a part has now been traversed. A third area of 2,500 square miles lies between the Leves, Pelly and Stikine rivers. Another large tract of 100,000 square miles, or about double the size of England. An unexplored area of 50,000 square miles lies between Great Bear lake and the Arctic coast. Nearly as large as Portugal is another tract between Great Bear lake, the Mackenzie river and the western part of Great Slave lake, is all 30,000 square miles. Lying between Stikine and Liard rivers to the north and the Liard and Peace rivers to the south is an area of 21,000 square miles. Of the 35,000 square miles southeast of Athabasca lake little is known. East of the Coppermine river and west of the Liard river is an area of 7,500 square miles of unexplored territory. Eastward from this, lying between the Arctic coast and Black's river, is an area of 31,000 square miles, or about equal to that of Ireland. Much larger than Great Britain and Ireland, and containing 175,000 square miles, is the area bounded by Black's river, Great Slave lake, Athabasca lake, Hatcher and Reindeer lakes, Churchill river and the west coast of Hudson's Bay. On the south of Hudson's Bay, between the Severn and Attawapiskat rivers, is an unexplored area, lying northeast of Manitoba, of 22,000 square miles in extent, or larger than Nova Scotia. Between Trout lake, Lac Seul, and the Albany river is an area of 15,000 square miles, equally unexplored. And the most easterly unexplored area is the greatest of all, comprising almost the entire interior of Labrador peninsula, in all 289,000 square miles.

Not the least of these unexplored areas is to be dismissed, as Voltaire said, as the whole of it, being "some leagues of snow and ice—a mere handful of hats filled with smoke and Indians." Beyond question great results will follow upon the exploration of these areas and the development of their resources. In the way of mineral wealth, their resources are undoubtedly enormous, while in the way of dense forests of hard wood, they possess sources of large promise for the future. It is important that all the information in regard to the resources and possibilities of the as yet unexplored territory that makes up so large a part of the total area of the Dominion should be placed within the reach of the public in plain terms as soon as possible after the reports of the exploring parties of the Dominion geological survey are made up.

DR. PATTERSON INTERVIEWED.

Winnipeg Tribune: Dr. Patterson, who has been acting in his capacity as Dominion government health officer in the districts infected by small pox in the Territories has returned and reports that the plague is now entirely stamped out. In the Edmonton district there was a large number of cases, but it was a debatable question among local doctors as to whether the disease was really small pox or chicken pox. Dr. Patterson was assisted in his work by Dr. Edwards, of Regina, and Dr. MacDonald, of Calgary. The disease seemed most prevalent among the half-breeds and Indians and in the opinion of Dr. Patterson there was very little danger of it being small pox of a virulent type. The Indians dreaded the disease and were anxious to be vaccinated.

The Edmonton district, the doctor believes, will before long be the best in America. The growth last year was almost tropical and the prospects for this year are splendid. The only drawback is in the roads which are very bad at times.

PAY OF ENUMERATORS.

A circular letter has been sent out from the minister of agriculture to the census commissioners with respect to the pay of enumerators. It is in part as follows:

"I must now direct you as commissioner to proceed to make up the accounts of your enumerators on the schedule of rates supplied. If in any case you find that the full allowance of $3 per day of eight hours has not been earned, and if you consider that the enumerators have exercised due diligence in their work, I am willing that you should make a report of the circumstances which lead you to believe that they ought to have special consideration or special allowance. If, with a statement of the facts and circumstances, you make a recommendation for special consideration, and if a fair case seems to be made out on which a special allowance can be based, I am prepared to say that the department will recognize it and make such special allowance."

"I am hopeful that in this way cases of hardship can be fairly dealt with and I am glad to feel that I am justified in taking this course."

"It is quite contrary to the law and quite impossible for us to adopt their suggestion of a flat rate of $3 per day to all enumerators, without regard to the work done. Every aim must be sustained by its own merits, and if reasonable and equitable it will be passed and paid without delay."

JUDGMENTS.

A number of judgments in cases heard at the last sitting of the court by Mr. Justice Scott, were received by the deputy clerk of the court Friday.

Gaiser vs. Gilmer, a small debt action for $15 being the value of 200 grain sacks supplied by defendant to Gaiser, was decided in favor of defendant, but without costs. Taylor & Boyle for plaintiff. Defendant defended in person.

F. Webb vs. D. A. Latimer. Action on breach of contract for the purchase of seven beef cattle at $32.00 per head. Judgment for the defendant upon plaintiff's claim with costs and for plaintiff upon the counter claim without costs. Short & Cross for plaintiff. C. deW. MacDonald for defendant.

Judgment for the plaintiffs was given in leaving implement vs. H.L. an action to recover the amount of three lien notes, which the defendant claimed were to be paid with delivery. Judgment for plaintiffs for $263.30 with costs. Short & Cross for plaintiffs.

WORK ON THE RAILWAY.

Surveyors McLeod and Beamish have been busy for the past week when the weather permitted running trial lines for the projected extension of the railway across the river. A number of lines have been run for the purpose of ascertaining the exact gradient for the right of way. These lines tap the C. & E. railway at various points south of the station and the final survey will locate the junction some little distance south of the station. Mr. McLeod expects to have the line located this week, when tenders for construction will at once be called for. Nine men are at present engaged on the survey.

Asked as to the probable length of time it would take to complete construction after the letting of the contract, Mr. McLeod said:

"To put the line in operating order will take about three months—possibly four."

(When asked if he had examined the bridge, and on being told of the gossip to the effect that it was not strong enough to carry a train, Mr. McLeod smiled and answered that he had investigated it and saw nothing wrong with it. "As to its ability to carry a train," he said, "the government and the bridge engineers could be counted on to look after that."

John Armstrong, C. E., arrived on a special on Saturday night to take charge of construction work.

Mr. McLeod said: "We had intended to send engineers out from here and from the end of the track to locate the line for the extension of the Canadian Northern westward, but our engineers are all busy owing to so much construction work going on in different localities. Mr. Armstrong was to go out but came here instead."

Mr. McLeod could not say which side of the river the line in Northern would be brought up on, but thought engineers would be sent out to examine the country on both sides.

When the line is ultimately carried up to the high bank of the river it will probably come up west of the H. B. Co. ford, in order to procure the easiest grade.

Mr. McLeod, who is chief engineer for the company, intends leaving for the morning for the east, the work here being continued by Mr. Armstrong.

FOOTBALL AT STRATHCONA.

Strathcona and Edmonton football-ists met on the green for the first time this season at Strathcona on Friday. All the other sports having been called off the football match was the only attraction of the afternoon. The match being the first of the season neither club was at its best, though the game throughout was a very creditable exhibition. Up to within a few minutes of the call of time neither side had scored. About 10 minutes before the whistle blew Edmonton scored. The south side of the case and by a determined rush carried the pig skin through the visitors' posts, tying the score, leaving it one all.

The players were:

BOARD OF TRADE MEET.

The quarterly general meeting of the board of trade was held in the fire hall this morning. President J. H. Gariepy in the chair.

A communication was read from the secretary of the Lacombe Business Men's Association re the matter of telephone connection with the towns along the C. & E. The secretary was instructed to write the association expressing the approval of the board of the suggestion.

Letters from the N. W. T. government were read re the communications of the board on the matters of draining the road from St. Albert to Morinville and the road from the north end of Beaver lake to Cooking lake, giving assurance of the consideration of the matters in the preparation of the estimates.

The secretary of the Strathcona board of trade saying a canvass had been made of the Strathcona board and that twelve or thirteen members would probably attend the proposed excursion to the coast. The secretary was instructed to write the C. P. R. that at least forty would join the excursion.

W. H. Moore representing Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann wrote from Toronto, assuring the board in reply to a letter from them that the delay in beginning the construction of the railway had been due to the delay in securing from the department of public works privileges to cross the bridge. Mr. Oliver and himself had done all in their power to secure the privilege but the rush of business during the session had delayed the matter. He was hopeful of receiving the terms at once and that the work would proceed at once.

Considerable discussion took place as to the advisability of asking the promoters to extend the railway to the top of the hill at once as several parties were desirous of erecting buildings as soon as it was known for certain where the station would be located. No action was taken in the matter.

The question of mining regulations came up for discussion. The regulations now in force are the same as those in force in the Yukon, but the different conditions make these very unsuitable. The matter was left in the hands of the mining committee of the board.

The question of provincial autonomy was discussed at length, and a committee composed of Messrs. Tams, MacKenzie, Short, Macleod and Richardson appointed to draft a resolution to be forwarded to the lieutenant-governor-in-council recommending the division of the Territories into two provinces, by the extension westward to the mountains of the northern boundary of Assiniboia, forming Assiniboia and that portion of Alberta lying south of the proposed line into one province, and Saskatchewan and the northern part of Alberta into another. It was also proposed to advocate the extension northward to Athabasca of the western boundary of Manitoba.

—Rev. Dr. Carman, general superintendent of the Methodist church in Canada, lectures in the church here this evening on "Trade and Growth."

Mr. Schultz, a rancher near Calgary, has a theory that by means of a small amount of cultivation, the grass on his prairie can be made to grow about twice as fast as by the natural process. He observed that around gopher holes and other spots where the ground had been disturbed, the grass is green in the spring when everything else is brown. Last year he tried the experiment of harrowing a piece of prairie and found the result fully beyond his expectations. He came to the conclusion, however, that harrowing it would be too expensive an operation and he has therefore designed and patented a special prairie cultivator. Mr. Schultz's device has been taken up by the McCormick people in the States and it is probable that in the near future a suitable cultivator for stimulating the prairie grass in the spring, will be out on the market.—Calgary Albertan.

It is undoubted that the claim of Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann in connection with the Yukon railway contract, which the senate defeated and which amounts to about $300,000, will be referred to the exchequer court. In other words, the claimants will have to prove their accounts in court before they are paid by the government.

"Saving at the Spigot Wasting at the Bung"

That's what buying poor paint means. Paint may be low-priced by the gallon and be extravagant to use owing to the poor covering power and wearing quality. After the paint is applied it's too late to save. Start right and use
